TMS INTERNATIONAL

It is the 1920s, or as it was named, the “Roaring Twenties,” a period of significant social, cultural and economic change in the United States. The era was characterized by a booming economy and consumer culture, the widespread popularity of jazz, and new forms of entertainment like radio and movies. However, 1926 was a particularly eventful year when TMS International was founded.

Since its humble beginnings, the Company has grown from a one-person Western Pennsylvania-area operation into an international company with more than 4,400 teammates at nearly 70 locations around the globe.

When he founded the Company 100 years ago, David Coslov said: “Take care of the customer, no matter what.” That is still TMS’ mission today...to provide safe and excellent service to its customers.

To mark 100 years of existence is an extraordinary achievement and shows the resilience and excellence of TMS. The Company has overcome the Great Depression, World War II, 9/11, the Great Recession, COVID-19 and more.

TMS has seen times of boom and bust, sometimes as part of the greater economy and sometimes specific to its markets. The Company has witnessed new competitors entering the market and older competitors seeking a renewed edge. And every time, TMS has emerged stronger on the other side.

But the heart of TMS is not just its products or customer services—it is the people who make them possible. It is their passion, creativity and expertise that inspire us to push boundaries and continue to create brighter futures for the next generation and beyond. By focusing on people, investing in communities and solving customer problems, TMS has built a strong foundation for growth, becoming a premier industrial and environmental services leader.

TMS thanks its teammates, the communities in which it operates, and its customers for making the first 100 years remarkable. We cannot wait to see what the next 100 years will bring.
